Insignificance

Having acquired powers undreamed of by our ancestors, we seem in many ways goodlike. But we have not evolved the wisdom needed to broker these powers. We have created external wealth but internal poverty. In this regard we have become more like the beasts than the angels. This is a very dangerous circumstance; we are like a small child with a loaded gun.

Robert Brumet – Birthing a Greater Reality

We've reached our limit of progression from a consciousness of separate beings. We are at a threshold between self-preservation and self-transcendence.

Robert Brumet – Birthing a Greater Reality

We're not going to make it through this time without everything changing. In order to find our way, we must get lost. There's a vast territory between what we're trying to leave behind and where we want to go, and we don't have any maps for that territory.

Charles Eisenstein

The earth was unformed and void, darkness was on the face of the deep, and the Spirit of God hovered over the surface of the water.

Gen. 1.2

Whoever loses his life for my sake will find it.

Matt. 10.39

Disrupting the Old Story

- My belief in scarcity was disrupted when someone was generous with me.
- My belief in competition was disrupted when someone put my needs ahead of theirs.
- My belief in insignificance was disrupted when someone listened and valued my words.

Your children are genius creators who have just arrived from Nonphysical, who are feeling empowered. And if they would be left to their own devices, they would not go astray. They would maintain worthiness; they would maintain their feeling of Well-Being. They would thrive, unless it was taught otherwise to them. In other words, if others don't do something to change their vibration, they are in a vibration of thriving.

Esther Hicks

If I bring forth what is within me,
what I bring forth will save me.

Jesus - Gospel of Thomas

Trusting the New Story

Does the message hold a positive vision for humanity?

Does the story remind me of who I truly am and encourage me to be all I can be?

Does it encourage me to be allowing and accepting of all?

Does it engender unconditional love?

Does it assist me to feel good about myself without resorting to flattery?

Does it emphasize free will or does it require you choose only one way?

My story unfolds in beauty when my thoughts flow forth from God.
