If we can praise and give thanks for another's blessings, rather than be envious and jealous and critical, then we can be assured that those same blessings (or even greater ones) will come to us.

Catherine Ponder – Open Your Mind to Prosperity

Your adversary is the adverse reaction of your own consciousness; it is not another person, it is yourself. So, to agree with your adversary means to get your own consciousness in tune so that the love-consciousness flows, so that you are non-resistant, so that you are a creative person in your approach to the world. Get your inner thoughts in agreement, eliminate adverse reactions; you will then find the way to deal to your advantage and creatively with persons and situations that you encounter.

Eric Butterworth – Eric Butterworth Speaks

The very first limitation is “I am an individual, separate from the All.”
Eliminate that and you
eliminate all limitations,
all trouble, all sickness, all poverty.

Lester Levenson

The year is 5496. It's the end of a specific cycle of consciousness that represents humanity graduating into a new level of self-understanding. Everything and everyone here are so different. We are all at peace. We live in harmony with everything. There is only one small patch of earth where those who wish to war only war with themselves. It's a self-imposed prison. They want to be there. They still reject love.
