

A view from space showing the Earth's horizon and a grid-like structure of a space station. The Earth's surface is covered in white clouds, and the horizon is a thin blue line. The space station structure is a grid of white lines. The background is black with many small white stars.

INDEPENDENCE DAY MESSAGE FROM SPACE STATION ASTRONAUTS

Everything is one. It comes from the same source and returns again to it. What we see comes from what we do not see. This is the explanation of the whole visible universe. The substance that we deal with, in itself, is never limited. Because we are limited is no reason why the Universe should have limitation. Our limitation is only our unbelief. We are not limited by actual boundaries, but by false ideas about life and by a failure to recognize that we are dealing with the Infinite. The power and substance behind everything remain infinite.

Ernest Holmes – Creative Mind & Success

To free yourself from repeating harmful and confining wave collapses, consider this Possibility Principle: In the nanosecond before your next thought, you are in a state of pure potential.

Mel Schwartz, The Possibility Principle

Turning into the energy of your future and intentionally observing that potential in the quantum, then causes infinite fields of energy to collapse into particles, called a quantum event, and that becomes an experience that can manifest in your physical, three-dimensional world.

Joe Dispenza, Becoming Supernatural

GRAND
SUITE

3329

Jesus recognized Mind in everything and called it “Father.” He knew that there is a faith center in each atom of matter and that faith in man can move upon the faith center in matter and can remove mountains.

Charles Fillmore, Atom-Smashing Power of Mind

