Substance, flowing through a consciousness of substance, 'reads your needs' as it passes through your mind and literally becomes the needed thing.

John Randolph Price – The Superbeings

Every thought you have falls into one of two streams of energy: enough or not enough. The more you observe and affirm enough, the more enough you have. The more you observe and affirm not enough, the more not enough you have.

Alan Cohen – Relax Into Wealth

The most powerful way to achieve a goal is to fixate on what you want to create. Look at a mistake just long enough to recognize it and stimulate your desire for what you want instead. Then turn your full attention to where you are headed.

What beliefs and intentions are you sponsoring within the collective consciousness? Recognize your power, for one person who is fully present and acting from a place of responsibility and genuine love can make a huge difference and inspire many others to do the same.

You are never deprived when someone else gains, because abundance expands proportionately to match desires. When the success of another makes your heart sing, your resistance is gone and your own success soars.

When a group of people come together with one accord and with one thought, a greater Power is generated. Not because the Creative Principle responds to a number of people more than it does to one, but because the combined faith of a group reaches a higher level of acceptance. The best results are gained when all members focus not on acquiring a specific good but for the purpose of reaching a higher state of consciousness.

Most rarely align with their true power because it seems illogical to them that there's power in relaxation, in letting go, in love or joy, or releasing resistance. We want you to breathe rather than try, to relax rather than offer effort, to smile rather than struggle, to be rather than do. Abundance is simply the Universe's response to consistent thoughts and feelings of abundance.

We are not limited by actual boundaries, but by false ideas about life and by a failure to recognize that we are dealing with the Infinite. We should radiate joy, and should be filled with faith, hope and expectancy. These cheerful, hopeful attitudes of mind are indispensable to the one who really wants to do things in life.

Ernest Holmes – Creative Mind and Success

You cannot be in a steady feeling of poverty and allow abundance. Those two vibrations don't go together. You've got to find a way to offer a vibration that matches abundance. You have to feel the way you want to live.

Abraham-Hicks – Daily Quote 3/1/26

You must have the consciousness for the thing desired. The secret of successful living is to build up the mental equivalent that you want; and to get rid of the mental equivalent that you do not want. Your subconscious cannot believe positively and negatively about the same idea at the same time.
